Basic Exercises

Exercise 1

What a better way of learning than playing games!

Before diving into the intermediate exercises, we suggest getting hands-on with flexbox by playing one of these engaging games.

1. Play Flexbox Froggy to help frogs find their lily pads by using flexbox
2. Give Flexbox Defense a go, where you use flexbox to place towers and stop incoming enemies.
3. Try beating Flexbox Zombies by using your flexbox skills to survive.

Pick any game to start playing and learning flexbox in a fun way!

Challenge | Website for a mobile service provider

'BLABSLAB' is a new mobile service provider on the market and is looking for a cool, new website. 'BLABSLAB' offers both a contracted and pay-as-you-go mobile service; for which their customers should be able to check their usage, remaining minutes and purchase more credit over their webpage.

They really love interactive elements on the page and big, bold colors. This must be an active, bright and happy website. The user's journey to either the pay-as-you-go or contract areas of the website must be shown.

'BLABSLAB' has done some market research which led them to conclude that there are too many pages on the current website. You can go to your own service provider's website and consider what you would do to improve the visitor's experience.

Remember, this needs to be, bright and friendly in its interactive elements and the service needs to be clear the minute you land on the homepage

Here is some inspiration on how such a website could look like:
